The tiles:

At the start of the game, the tiles are located in the side trays located on the far left and right sides of the game screen. You may left click a tile one time to designate it as “active”. When a tile is active, the next left click will move the tile to an empty cell in a grid. You may only have one tile active at a time.

The game board:

The main game board is the area of the screen in the center. It is a square grid that you can move tiles into in order to complete the puzzle. When a tile is active, a single left click will place the tile in an empty cell designated as -1 or “empty”. A tile can also be moved from its current location in the game board using the same process.

The side trays:

The two side trays are located on the left and right sides of the screen. They hold the tiles at the beginning of the game. Using the same left click sequence to move tiles, the same action may be performed when interacting with tiles located in these side trays.

In General:

A single left click will interact with the moveable objects in the game.
